NOW, THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged and in consideration of the premises and the covenants contained herein, You and Discovery do hereby covenant and agree as follows:

1. Mutual Understandings

1.1 Discovery. Discovery is a 501(c)(3) Texas non-profit corporation that endeavors to create a warm and nurturing environment in which Participants will feel safe and comfortable sharing their feelings, experiences, and concerns. Discovery intends to help those in need. However, the services provided do not constitute behavioral health treatment, counseling, or the practice of psychotherapy. A referral may be offered if these services are needed or requested. Discovery tries to take maximum advantage of each Participant's time. While Discovery does try to establish a caring and nurturing environment, the Program does involve long hours and can be tiring and challenging.

1.2 Programs. Discovery conducts various program events intended to assist Participants to become more aware, communicative, sensitive, and empowered. Many, but not necessarily all, Participants have found that sharing their thoughts, feelings, philosophies, and personal information with others, followed by experiencing acceptance from others, can be a meaningful and helpful experience. The Program is educational and experiential in nature. Discovery is not medical or psychological treatment or therapy, nor is it intended to replace any medical or psychological treatment or therapy, and we do not guarantee any specific results. Discovery does not staff any Program with medical, mental, or other health care professionals nor does it provide any professional medical or psychological or psychiatric services or facilities.

1.3 Participation. Sharing and taking part in program events, exercises, and activities is vital to the program. Such sharing with others (most, if not all, of whom may be previously unknown to the Participant), however, necessarily entails foreseeable and unforeseeable risks, as do other aspects of the Program. Sometimes sharing personal information can be harmful. From the signup questionnaire Participant has been asked to complete and submit, Participant is aware of some of the types and level of sensitivity of personal information that may be discussed during the Program. Many people with varying backgrounds participate in the Program.

1.4 Enrollment discretion. Discovery reserves the right to refuse enrollment to, or to stop the participation of, any Participant (a) whose condition is, in Discovery's sole determination, beyond our capability to provide proper care, or (b) who, in our sole determination, is disruptive, uncooperative or poses a threat to the health or safety of other Participants, staff, volunteers, or others.

1.5 Privacy. Discovery will respect the Participant's privacy, which means Discovery will not release or share information provided by Participant unless required by law or agreed to by Participant. If Discovery believes that Participant poses an imminent danger to Participant or others, Discovery reserves the right to take appropriate action, including, but not limited to, informing proper authorities.

1.6 Location and risks. Discovery Programs will be held at a venue that Discovery, in its sole discretion, selects. The Program may be held at facilities that may be inherently risky. For purposes of illustration and not limitation, the Program location could be at a ranch where there would be the possibility of tripping or slipping on uneven ground or being injured by livestock or other animals. Wherever the Program location is, there will always be some possibility of bodily injury, disability, disease, or death, or of mental or emotional distress resulting from an injury or traumatic event.

Participants are responsible for managing their own travel arrangements and are encouraged to consider travel insurance to mitigate potential losses. Discovery Programs reserves the right to cancel or reschedule a Program weekend at its discretion, and in such cases, will endeavor to provide timely notice to registered Participants.
